

Andrew Wood
Vice President of International Sales, Litecure LLC.

Graduating from Frenchay School of Nursing in Bristol, England, Andrew pursued a career working in various anesthetic departments, focusing on neuro surgery and plastic and burns. After working in hospitals in the UK and the Netherlands, Andrew turned his attention to medical product development, sales and marketing. Creating and managing a highly successful, UK national sales team.

For the last 20+ years, he has worked in the United States, heading up sales and marketing teams for a number of manufacturers of high end capital equipment.

Since 2007 he has been working with a former colleague, Dr. Brian Pryor, founder and CEO of Delaware based, Litecure LLC. Andrew has helped develop Class IV laser therapy, as the modality of choice for Physical Therapists, Pro sports teams, veterinarians and musculo skeletal rehab specialists across the world. Through direct selling, and working with distributor partners, Andrew has sold into 50+ countries, visiting many of them.

When not travelling, Andrew volunteers as an EMT, and scares squirrels riding his mountain bike through the woods near his home in central Jersey.
